WHAT DOES ROBINHOOD DO WITH YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION?

Why?
Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

What?
The types of personal information we collect and share depend on the product or service you have with us. This information can include:
- Social Security number and income
- Account balances and transaction history
- Credit history and credit scores

How?
All financial companies need to share customers’ personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customers’ personal information; the reasons Robinhood chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.

To limit our sharing
- E-mail us at privacy@robinhood.com. Please include “Limit Sharing” in the subject line of the email and include any/all of the following opt-out statements in the body of the email to indicate your choices:
  - Do not share information about my creditworthiness with your affiliates for their everyday business purposes.
  - Do not allow your affiliates to use my personal information to market to me.

Please note the following:
- If you have a joint account, your choice(s) will apply to everyone on your account.
- If you are a new customer, we can begin sharing your information 30 days from the date we sent this notice. When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice.
- However, you can contact us at any time to limit our sharing.
*Personal information may be shared with nonaffiliates at your request.
