Note: Regulatory Trading Fees are set by US law and regulation and are subject to change. Robinhood collects these fees to offset various charges assessed on us directly or indirectly by self-regulatory organizations (“SROs”). You should always check the current posted Fee Schedule before placing trades in your account.

<sup>1</sup> These regulatory trading fees can be waived under certain criteria. Visit our Help Centre to learn more. The published fees are effective 4 April 2026.

<sup>2</sup> Fee effective 1 January 2026. The limit on this fee is based on execution of your order, which can occur in parts. This fee is rounded up to the nearest cent and no greater than $9.79 (unless the fee is less than one cent, in which case it is rounded down to 0).

<sup>3</sup> The Options Regulatory Fee (“ORF”) is a transaction fee that U.S. options exchanges assess their members in connection with options transactions. The ORF is collected by the Options Clearing Corp (“OCC”) on behalf of the exchanges. The ORF varies by options exchange, where an options trade executes, and whether the broker responsible for the trade is a member of a particular exchange. As a result, Robinhood calculates an average blended rate based on the amount it is required to remit to the exchanges. The fee charged by Robinhood may differ from or exceed the actual fee paid by Robinhood in connection with any transaction. These differences may be caused by various factors, including, among other things, the rounding methodology used by Robinhood, the use of allocation accounts and transactions or settlement movements for which a fee may not be assessed, timing differences in fee changes, third-party rate caps and floors, calculation errors and various other anomalous reasons. You acknowledge, understand, and agree that Robinhood determines the amount of the ORF charged to you and its other customers in its sole and exclusive discretion, and that the ORF amount collected from you by Robinhood may differ from or exceed the ORF that Robinhood pays to OCC. The OCC Clearing Fee is charged by the OCC who provides central counterparty clearing and settlement services to the US options exchanges. The purpose of the OCC Clearing Fee is to recover a portion of the costs related to the OCC’s supervision and regulation of the options markets.

<sup>4</sup> The Consolidated Audit Trail (“CAT”) Fee is a charge assessed to industry members, such as broker-dealers like Robinhood, to fund the operational costs of the CAT system. The CAT system is a regulatory initiative mandated by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to create a comprehensive audit trail of all equity and options trades in the U.S. markets. This fee is rounded to the nearest cent (unless the fee is less than one cent, in which case it is rounded down to 0).
